BIG FIGURES.

What England's Wars have Cost in Three Years, Etc, Etc.

LONDON, Aug 17—In the house of commons this afternoon the Marquis of Hartington secretary of state for India submitted Indian estimates for the fiscal year of 1880 1881 Receipts are placed at £66 746 000 expenditures, £66 329,000—a surplus of £417-000 showing a decrease of £1,000 000 on each side of the account as compared with 1879 1880 In presenting these estimates the marquis said There would have been an aggregate surplus for the past three years of £11 197,000, but for the Afghan war The time is approaching when productive works in India will no longer be a charge upon but a source of revenue, to the country, War expenses for the fiscal years of '78 '79 '79 80 and 80 '81 in round figures are £14 000 000 and the cost of the frontier railway £4 000 000 making a total of £18 000 000 Deducting a supposed surplus of £11 100 000 it leaves a deficit of £7 000 000 Lord Hartington severely denounced the negligence in preparing war estimates and underestimating not only the expenses, but the difficulties of these enterprises on the part of the late government On the deficit he said that £6 500,000 remains to be recovered this year A loan has already been authorized for productive works, the proceeds of which are to be devoted to this purpose It is also intended to reduce drawings in India on the same account about £1 000 000 If these measures are insufficient a loan might be raised in India but no addition to the Indian debt should be made if it is possible to avoid it The statement regarding the imperial contribution to war expenses of India must be deferred until the complete cost of the war has been fully ascertained, but the war was certainly the result of imperial policy, and therefore assistance to India from imperial resources is necessary

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN

CAMP HOWARD I T Aug 15

Lieut Farrow with his scouting column went into camp here this afternoon Leaving Fort Lapwai which is a very pretty post located on Lapwai creek on the 4th the command climbed the steep hills to the southwest from the summits of which vast grain fields can be seen on the creek bottoms These fields are owned and cultivated by the Nez Perce Indians some of whom live in substantial houses while others stick to their tepees We pass the pretty ranch of Mr White whom the Indians allow to live on part of their reservation and soon after enter the open timber of Craig's mountain An early camp is made near Mason's ranch which is now deserted the owner having been

KILLED BY NEZ PERCES

During the war of '77 Here one of our best horses mixed some crazy weed with his grass and became so frantic that it took half the men in camp and about all the lariats to secure him The day was tolerably warm but the ground was white with frost next morning and ice formed in the canteens Our bugler sounded boots and saddle while the grass was still white and about noon we pass the stake which marks the reservation line At the door of a log house to the right of the road stand two white men with their squaw wives the ladies of their choice, and view our column as it passes. Right here is the head of Lawyer's canyon, and the finest grass is growing everywhere a Mexican who lives in the vicinity having scattered seeds of timothy broadcast over miles of the country In this way he secures plenty of hay without any plowing We are soon at the edge of the timber and the beautiful Camas prairie is spread at our feet—a section which has become as historic as it is picturesque We halt on the hillside and the whole panorama of the early part of the

NEZ PERCE WAR

Of '77 is spread before us Right here the gallant Lieut Rains and his brave little band of ten soldiers and scouts Foster and Bluett were killed These two scouts had started out to ascertain the enemy's position, and on reaching the timber just above here were pounced upon by the Indians, who killed Bluett Foster returned to the cavalry camp at Cottonwood, and Lieutenant Rains and ten soldiers volunteered to return with him to recover Bluett's body and reconnoitre the enemy's position. They encountered the full strength of the Indians and the number of empty shells beside their bod es told that their last cartridge was expended before they lost the fight. They were buried where they fell, but their remains have recently been removed to the little cemetery at Fort Lapwai Bluett's body was taken to Walla Walla, and Foster's grave is just below here surrounded by a few rails. Far to the south can be seen the snowy peaks of

THE SEVEN DEVILS

Standing out against the smoky sky, while at the extreme end of the prairie you can see the head of White Bird canyon, where Col Perry, with two companies of cavalry met the Indians on the 17th of June, 1877, and was badly defeated 34 men being killed Lieut Theller's body was sent to California and the bones of 28 soldiers have been this spring removed to Lapwai cemetery, while five of the bodies have never been discovered Close by is where

MRS MANUEL WAS MURDERED

By Chief Joseph and the body was consumed in the flames when the Indians burned her house Several versions of this horrible affair are given some of the squaws claiming that her body was taken off into the mountains and buried, but this is very improbable as Indians are not in the habit of burying their victims From Mr Manuel we learn that himself and wife were riding along half a mile from their house when attacked He was wounded and left for dead, and his little girl who was riding behind him, wounded also The Indians then took his wife and little girl and boy back to the house where Chief Joseph, the pious man who now requests the prayers of Portland preachers killed Mrs Manuel by stabbing her in the breast At the same time the little boy was seized by the legs and his brains beat out on the stove These horrible sights were witnessed by the little girl who is now alive The red devils then burned the house consuming the corpses of Mrs Manuel and her little boy All these facts I learn in an interview with Mr Manuel, and they may be relied upon The little girl escaped to the brush where she was found by Pat Price who next day succeeded in passing through the hostile lines with her, unmolested

To our right we can see Rocky canyon, up which Joseph's outfit passed after crossing Salmon river and camped on the head of Cottonwood creek which flows at our feet The main camp then moved over toward Kamai, on a high butte—this side of which we can see the rock fortifications which they threw up In the meantime their war parties were burning ranches at one of which—Closedale's—they secured the big rifle whose cannon like report became familiar to every man who participated in the succeeding fights Beyond the fortified butte you can see where the battle of the Clearwater was fought on the 12th and 13th of July when General Howard's forces defeated the Nez Perces To the north of this point the high peaks of the Coeur d Alenes soar skyward over the highest of which runs the rugged

LO LO TRAIL

Over which the footsore infantry tramped and climbed in pursuit of a well mounted enemy Below us where the road crosses Cottonwood creek, is Norton's ranch, where considerable skirmishing occurred The earthworks thrown up by the soldiers still remain on the neighboring hills and a new stockade was built here last month when the settlers anticipated another war, Mr Norton, with his wife, two other ladies some children and Moore and Day, left here in the night for Mt Idaho but were attacked by Nez Perces before they had proceeded very far Norton was killed his wife wounded and Moore and Day mortally wounded The tender-hearted red men also killed Mrs Chamberlin's babe and cut up a little girl and left her for dead but she afterward recovered The bones of the horses still mark the spot where the unequal contest took place which was ended next day by a party of volunteers under Major Shearer coming to the rescue On the road we pass the spot where the gallant Capt Randall with seventeen volunteers charged the enemy and died the death of the true soldier To the east the timbered ridges of the White Bird mountains stand out in bold relief while a few miles from their base may be seen a picture que, timber fringed lake where Chief Joseph had a recruiting station This

CAMAS PRAIRIE

Is indeed a beautiful place and the man with soul so dead who never to himself hath said that it was a country worth fighting for be he white or not must indeed be lacking in patriotism The most luxuriant grasses flourish here and there are many ranches on which the finest wheat in the world is being raised The climate is cold with heavy snows in winter, but at present the place appears like a Paradise The prairie is about 30 miles square and there is still considerable government land vacant There are two small towns Grangeville and Mt Idaho

THE GREAT EUREKA FIRE

FIFTY ACRES IN THE HEART OF THE CITY SWEPT

A Frightful Scene—Poor Families in Distress, Etc Etc.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN]

SAN FRANCISCO Aug 18—Owing to the destruction of the telegraph office and lines news regarding the conflagration at Eureka Nev has been delayed during which time great interest has been manifested in this city to learn details of the disaster This evening dispatches came through giving further particulars and partial lists of losses from which the following is ascertained

At about 10 o clock A M yesterday an alarm of fire was sounded and a dense cloud of smoke was seen to issue from the rear of Mrs Toplin's fruit and vegetable store on Main street just south of Odd Fellows hall In two minutes several wood en buildings in the immediate vicinity were enveloped in flame The fire seemed to make unprecedented headway from the very start The wind was blowing a gale from the south and continued to blow as it can blow only in these mountain canyons until the flames had run their course The fire backed up against wind on the southward to Gold street crossing Buel and in turn reaching to Spring and Paul streets Its course and scope being almost identical with the great conflagration of April, 1879 differing only in these particulars It went a little farther south and stopped a little short of the old mark on the north Possibly three hundred houses, many of them business establishments, were destroyed also some of the finest private residences in town

A space equal to fifty acres of the heart of town was swept. In this area only half a dozen buildings remain. The Leader office Odd Fellows hall, theater, International hotel A M Hillhouse's elegant residence and the Methodist church were among the prominent buildings destroyed The Jackson house was gutted but still stands The International is melted almost level with the ground The entire line of buildings on the west side of Main street is charred and many of them badly damaged The exact origin of the fire is no known When first discovered the flames were far advanced in the rear of the premises already noted.

When the fire had got beyond control a scene ensued which beggars all attempts at description Hundreds of men women and children panic stricken were fleeing in all directions for safety some bearing with them articles of personal or household goods Those on the lines of Spring and Paul streets scaled the rugged mountain to the eastward while persons farther down the flat sought refuge in the direction of Nob hill In the meantime drays and wagons were dashing around in utmost haste to bear valuables from the doomed district. Finally the sun went down on the stricken and exhausted people

The Sentinel roughly estimates the losses at $750-000 covered by about $150,000 insurance The Sentinel thinks that there must be 60 persons suffering among the poorer families and calls for a meeting to-day to organize a relief committee

Measures for Relief

A meeting of citizens this evening organized a relief committee, composed of the clergy and others and adjourned until to morrow But few cases of absolute destitution are reported thus far. Several parties are clearing away the debris to rebuild It is ascertained that fewer poor families were burned out than on the occasion of the other great fire The people are hopeful There is in the hands of the old relief committee of a year ago about $4000 It has not yet been determined to call for extraneous aid, though the committee may ask for assistance Ex Congressman Wren was chairman of to day's meeting

EADS SHIP RAILWAY

The address of Capt Eads on the construction of his proposed ship railway across the isthmus of Darien delivered a few days ago before the chamber of commerce of San Francisco and published in full by journals of his city embraces a clearly defined plan Part of his subject was to show that his proposal to carry vessels with their cargoes upon a railway was the well-digested plan of a practical engineer and not the wild dream of a visionary projector He proposes twelve rails for his road instead of two and under each car to place a multitude of wheels For the ship a cradle would be fitted, so that the vessel would lie at rest as in the water with her weight evenly distributed and supported as he claims with absolute safety to herself and cargo A cradle for a ship and cargo weighing six thousand tons would be about 350 feet long and would rest on twelve rails spaced four feet apart. This would give a bearing 44 feet wide and 350 feet long On each of the twelve rails there would be 116 wheels The weight then would be about four and one-third tons to each wheel, and 780 pounds only to each square foot of road-bed To remedy any possible unevenness in the rails each wheel would have over it a strong spiral steel spring which would admit a play of several inches To avoid curves in the railway turn tables long enough to receive the cradle would be placed at necessary points in the main track, and on these the cradle would be turned to the right or left to change the direction of the ship The cradle or dock on wheels, will be backed down into the water under a ship and when the vessel is properly secured the car will be drawn slowly forward Before the vessel is drawn entirely out of water proper supports will be placed under and against her hull, and when everything is secured she will be started on her journey overland There is no danger, Capt Eads holds, of so much strain upon a vessel going upon his railway as she is exposed to in a rough sea and he asserts that a ship which could not ride with safety upon his railway would be unseaworthy and ought to be condemned Since he first broached the subject of a ship railway he has not, he declares, met a single eminent engineer who doubts the practicability of his plan.

As to cost, as compared with any of the proposed canals, he finds the argument wholly in favor of his project. He estimates that the railway may be built for fifty million dollars, while the Nicaragua canal would cost one hundred millions, and the DeLesseps canal not less than one hundred and fifty millions He claims also that the ship railway would be far less liable to accident and blockade, as he believes that ordinary tide-water or lock canals would often be injured by vessels running into the banks, and that unless they were built very wide, which would greatly increase the first cost, this danger would seriously hamper their operations A leading objection to the canal would be its locks These locks would be numerous, and an injury to any one of them would render the whole work useless till it could be repaired Moreover, a canal constructed to meet the wants of present commerce might be wholly inadequate to accommodate the ships of ten or twenty years hence As a business proposition Capt. Eads presents his railway as far better entitled to consideration than either of the proposed canals, as the cost of constructing and maintaining the railway would be so much less It has been estimated that the cheapest of these proposed canals, that of Nicaragua, would pay a dividend of eight per cent. per annum upon a toll of two dollars per ton If so the railway would pay eight per cent. upon a toll of one dollar, as it would cost only half as much Another part of the argument, in which we here are especially interested, is that the railway would save to our Pacific states from four to six millions a year in grain freights alone Time saved would also be a great matter in reaching the markets of Europe. It is quite probable that many who have been accustomed to consider Eads' plan as the dream of an enthusiast never to be fulfilled, will upon examination of its details come to the conclusion that its feasibility has been demonstrated.

RUSSIAN AND AMERICAN WHEAT.

In an article on the English foreign wheat supply a leading London journal argues that Russia will no longer be able to compete as actively as heretofore with the United States in supplying the deficiencies of Western Europe This conclusion is reached after a long examination of the state of agriculture in Russia and the deficiencies of her railway system We are told that Maximoff, one of the czar's councillors of state and chief of the department of public domains, is traversing Russia with the object of pressing upon rural communities the necessity of exchanging the rude agricultural implements in use among them for modern and more effective appliances. But the peasantry are said to be appalled at the price of harvesters and threshers, and when one is purchased they do not know how to run it Again, the Russian wheat-grower has to deal with the beetle the locust and worse than all with successive droughts He cannot change to stock growing, for pasturage fails and cattle disease is everywhere prevalent. The rural classes in Russia possess habits of industry and economy, but these are to a great degree neutralized by want of intelligence and skill. Russia, which formerly had the wheat trade of western Europe almost without competition finds that the conditions have lately undergone great changes Twenty years ago the Russian government sent a commission to the United States to investigate the wheat trade, and this commission reported that Russia would have nothing to fear from American competition because America would have no surplus to spare. Ten years later, in 1870, Russia exported 120 000 000 million bushels and America 53 000 000. Six years later the proportion was 144 000 000 to our 126,000 000 while in 1879 we had left Russia far behind, our export being 176 000 000 and hers 120-000,000 In Russia the present year the yield falls still lower and government will only allow a small quantity of wheat to be shipped from Russian ports The effect will be to give the European wheat market almost wholly to America and the remarkable fact is noted that American flour has even been handled at Russian ports and sold under the local market rates The main reason for this is the wretched system of railway transportation in Russia There are no grain elevators, and the single lines of railway not provided with depot facilities are m[illegible] inadequate to the demands made upon them Hence the London newspaper is of opinion that to put down double lines to increase rolling stock to the necessary degree and reorganize the administration of railways cannot be accomplished in R[illegible] in less than five years by which time [illegible] proximity the United States will be very far ahead of the imp[illegible]

pe ence as Weaver Southern democrats he says told him freely that their policy was now to allow the opposition whether republicans or independents to talk freely or even to vote without hindrance but so to count the votes as to insure a democratic majority He himself was not molested in the south but democrats said to him "We are now engaged in a life and death struggle and cannot afford to do anything which will put at risk the success which now seems within our grasp De la Matyr agrees fully with Weaver as to the means employed by the democrats to carry Alabama It was impossible he said that they should have had a majority except by a false count But they made no secret of their reliance on this expedient. The speeches he heard were all made up of appeals to the passions of the southern people He told them that in all attempts to array the south against the north they would be certain to be beaten and that they would deserve to be Then he came home in disgust—dissatisfied apparently with his position as an assistant democrat in the north—and gave his story with indignant emphasis to the Indianapolis Journal The experience of Weaver and De la Matyr in the south awakens also the ire of a greenback organ at Washington City which exclaims against the southern method of carrying elections and closes with the remark that it rests with those who control southern politics to say whether these things shall be righted 'amid the roar of cannon, over heaps of dead and dying and under the hot glare of conflagrations lighting up fields red with slaughter, or whether a peaceful solution shall be reached by the ballot

It is reported on good authority that one John McCombe who was sent to the penitentiary for robbing McCully's safe at Salem was pardoned out lately by Gov Thayer McCombe was sentenced at the October term, 1878, for five years. After his incarceration he cut the throat of a fellow prisoner, for which an indictment was found against him at a recent term of court at Salem The statement is made that he was released under circumstances which enabled him to slip out of the state and avoid the consequences of the new indictment, which still stands against him. It is understood that he took immediate departure for Victoria. It is worth while to inquire why Gov Thayer pardoned this man, when he had not served out half his term and was still under indictment for another crime. The law requires the executive to report to the legislature the grounds on which pardons are granted We shall be somewhat curious to see what Gov Thayer has to say about this one Did he hear argument in this case, according to the rule he has adopted? If so it is strange that nobody seems to have heard of it. We learn that the father of McCombe was in the state recently, and begged a certain person who knew that the pardon had been granted to say nothing about it till he had had time to get the young man out of the state. It would seem that easy pardons like this could hardly justify that severe virtue which can always find reasons enough for denial of applications for clemency in cases where an intelligent humanity requires it.

S A Clarke has been announced as a candidate for the clerkship of the house at the coming session of the legislature. He has been clerk heretofore, with discredit to himself and the state In particular, out of his conduct as clerk in 1872 many scandals arose. He was repeatedly charged through the public press with having corruptly sold his services as clerk to advance various bills and resolutions, and not a few of the amounts alleged to have been paid him, with the names of witnesses, were distinctly stated We have several of these articles, which members of the house who may be asked to vote for him again for that position would probably like to read The man who is distinctly charged with taking bribes in an official capacity—names amounts, the special service for which the alleged bribes were said to have been received being stated, together with other particulars, and who yet has not brought those who made the charges to answer for them, would seem to have something yet to do before he presents himself for official position again

Judge J H. Reed, in addressing the Hancock club last night said the democratic candidate had stolen the republican thunder by endorsing the amendments to the constitution made since the war, that republicans were mad because the democrats had endorsed the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth amendments Without, however, taking time to breathe, the judge proceeded to characterize these amendments as frauds and to denounce the manner in which their ratification was obtained by the republican party, and especially the fraud, as he called it by which Oregon's assent to these amendments was given, two republicans illegally holding seats in the legislature until the vote on ratification was taken, and then being deprived of their seats, Judge Reed's speech certainly placed Hancock in the position of an endorser of fraud No other legitimate conclusion could be drawn from his propositions than that the amendments were ratified by fraud and that Hancock endorsed them

Chinese labor has failed at North Adams, Mass The two or three hundred who were imported eight years ago to work in the shoe-shops at that place have been discharged and their places filled by white men The test, fully made, has shown the inferiority of the Chinese as workmen. While in North Adams the celestials were objects of constant attention from the good ladies of the town who made every attempt to Christianize and teach them American habits of living They were formed into classes in the Sunday schools and drilled in the catechism, but without much effect In accordance with their characteristics, as shown everywhere they were quiet, orderly and submissive during their whole stay But a protracted trial of them as skilled workmen showed that they were not wanted

Alabama has repudiated $28 500 000 of its public debt Arkansas $18 300 000, Tennessee $23 800 000 North Carolina, $44 300,000, and other equally sound and solid democratic states greater or less sums The readjusters of Virginia recite these facts in their appeal to the national democratic committee for recognition as the simon pure democracy of Virginia adding in proof of their claim that they also propose to repudiate about $27 000 000

Judge Reed in his speech last night said that the sacred writ of habeas corpus must be preserved Is he quite sure he didn't mean the writ of attachment garnishment or some of those other pillars of our liberties

THURSDAY MORNING, AUG. 19, 1880.

CITY.

RUNAWAY.—The very handsome and valuable span of carriage horses belonging to Mayor Thompson took fright yesterday morning and ran away. The result was a damaged vehicle and the loss of one of the horses' eyes. Mayor Thompson started for East Portland yesterday morning for a drive. He drove his spanking team down on Stark street ferry slip and was just going upon the boat when a large bale of hay which was standing at one side fell over toward the team. This gave the horses a fright and caused them to swerve suddenly to one side. In doing so the end of the tongue violently collided against the side of the cabin. About one foot of the end of the tongue where it entered the ring of the neck yoke snapped off like a brittle reed, and caused the pole to drop. Seeing the danger of the situation Mayor Thompson sprung out holding tightly to the lines. The mettlesome team became more frightened than ever and turned sudden around and started toward the street. In doing this the tongue ran off at a sharp angle turning the fore wheels so that they cramped and capsized the buggy. This capped the climax. Away the horses sprang like the wind and jerked the lines out of the firm grasp of the Mayor. While passing up the incline the end of the pole struck in a depression and was smashed to pieces. On reaching Front street the horses turned up that thoroughfare and ran as far as Morrison and up that street to Fourth, dragging the upset buggy and reducing the body of the vehicle to a wreck. Strange to say, the wheels and axle-trees escaped with very slight damage. About $75 will repair the damage to the buggy. When the team reached the intersection of Fourth and Morrison streets, some very foolish and thoughtless individual picked up a small stone and hurled it at the heads of the frightened horses, vainly hoping by that means to bring them to halt. Very unfortunately the stone was too well directed. It struck one of the animals squarely in the eye crushing the ball and most effectually destroying the sight. After this unfortunate accident the team was soon stopped in their mad career. Mayor Thompson says he does not care for the buggy or runaway; but very greatly regrets the unnecessary accident to the horse's eye.

A DIFFERENCE.—Quite a little scene occurred yesterday evening at the corner of Washington and Third streets, in front of the Chinese store, just after the arrival of the Astoria boat. A young man who drives an express wagon made a contract with a number of Chinamen who came up on the steamer to haul their baggage from the dock up to the corner of Washington and Fourth street at a certain stipulated price, 75 cents per load. The baggage amounted to a good load, all in fact that could be piled up in the express wagon. When the driver reached this place, he found a crowd of Chinamen on the sidewalk awaiting his coming. As soon as the wagon came to a halt half a dozen Johns sprang forward and commenced to pull out the baggage. Suspecting that something was wrong, the driver stopped them and asked for his money. After a brief consultation among themselves one of the Chinamen offered the driver half a dollar. He declined to accept the coin, and reminded them of the contract price. They refused to pay a cent more, when a hot dispute arose. At last accounts the driver was sitting on his wagon waiting for the Johns to come to terms while they obstinately refused to capitulate. However the expressman had the advantage—he had all the baggage and refused to allow the Chinamen to touch it until they "pungled." Just how the difference was adjusted we are not advised. A large crowd collected and seemed to enjoy the fun.

CARRYING THE BROOM.—Under the heading of "The Figures again Altered," the Alta of Aug. 14th says: "The steamer State of California arrived last evening and eclipsed all previous efforts. She left Astoria at 4 A. M. on the 12th inst., and made fast to her berth in this city at 5:35 P. M. on the 13th. Time—37 hours, 35 minutes. From bar to bar; distance of 640 miles, she was just 35 hours, 30 minutes. This is an average of over 15 knots an hour. We observed recently in eastern papers that considerable notice was given to the steamer Louisiana, running between New York and New Orleans, having made the best passage on record between the two ports mentioned, her average being 13½ miles an hour. This cannot be offered as a comparison to the California's, which is away ahead of it. It may also be noticed that the Columbia was but one night at sea; but the same feat she has performed several times, and she has not been put to her best yet."

ANOTHER CUP RACE.—The most important race of the season comes off next Saturday at 2 P. M., it being a four-oared race, one and one-half miles and return, for the "Grant Cup," which was offered last fall as a prize to be rowed for each year until some club had won it three times in succession. It was won last year by the Portland Rowing Association. Committees from other different clubs met last evening and perfected arrangements for the race. The following gentlemen have consented to act as officials: Judge S. W. [illegible], referee; Messrs. M. F. Spencer and S. [illegible] Gilman, judges, Capt. N. Ingersoll, starter; Mr. S. H. Greenberg, timer. It was agreed that the referee and the judges shall constitute a regatta committee with power to settle all disputed questions. Entries shall be made to the regatta committee to-day. A steamer will probably accompany the race for the accommodation of the press and public.

ROUGH PASSAGE.—The steamer Oregon, which arrived here last evening from San Francisco experienced a very tempestuous voyage. Strong head winds were experienced during the entire passage and heavy seas swept the decks at intervals. For 36 hours the steamer was unable to make any progress. All that could be done was to keep the prow of the steamer to the gale and weather it the best she could. A number of heavy seas was shipped, the waves passing clear over the decks and flooding many of the staterooms. Officers and passengers were gratified to reach the Columbia bar and sight tranquil waters.

THE REAL FACTS.—Rev. Father Schram, of Vancouver, writes the following note, in which he gives the real facts in relation to the drowning of the lad, near that place, whose death was mentioned yesterday: "The child's name is Frank or John Gibbier. He was not sent to bring home cows, as such work is never demanded of the children on Sunday, neither of children of his age (seven or eight years); but without any permission of his superiors he had left the orphanage, probably to play with some other boys. How the child was drowned is not accurately known."

A WISE PRECAUTION.—Mr. W. C. Noon started yesterday morning for Ilwaco with a life line, which will be placed near the [illegible] for the protection of bathers. Large [illegible] are placed along the line at intervals of 30 feet. This is certainly a wise precaution, but it occurs to us that it comes rather late. Had there been such a line the probabilities are that Miss Eva Burbanks would be alive to-day.

COST OF BURYING DOGS.—Bills were allowed at the city council last night to the amount of $101 for killing and burying dogs—$61 to J. Arnold and $40 to S. H. Reed. The amount is excessive, but the bills were properly audited and are no doubt correct. Steps will be taken to devise means by which this portion of the city's expense will be materially lessened.

STEEPLE WORK.—The spire of the Taylor Street M. E church is being painted; a cumbersome string of ladders have been erected alongside the spire, and extending up along the ornamental tin, on top of the spire; the painters are seated in slings or swings, suspended from the top, moving down as they proceed with the work.

SEWER FLUSHED.—Yesterday morning No. [illegible] engine was set on First and Alder streets and the sewer flushed. The engine was then moved to Second and Alder streets and from there to Fifth. The sewer along Alder street is in good condition, the stream from the engine having carried away all the sediment into the river.

DEMOCRATIC CLUB MEETING.—Last evening an open air meeting was held by the Hancock and English Club, at the corner of Stark and First streets. The meeting was quite largely attended, several hundred persons being present. The meeting was addressed at some length by Judge J. H. Reed.

IN LIMBO.—John Gately was arrested yesterday charged with an assault on the person of Mrs. Anna Riley, his mother-in-law. The case will come up before Justice Petrain to-day.

WONDERFUL baby upright piano in rosewood case, 7 octave, only $250. See it at H. Sinsheimer's, agent for the Decker & Son celebrated piano, (acknowledged the best), and Parlor organs.

POSTPONED.—The committee appointed by the printers to secure suitable transportation for the picnic which was announced to come off at Vancouver next Saturday, have not been able to charter a steamer or barge large enough to accommodate the excursionists. For this very sufficient reason, the picnic has beed indefinitely postponed. The printers prefer not to giving any at all to holding a picnic on a small scale with very meager accommodations.

PERRY BAKER AGAIN.—Yesterday afternoon Perry G. Baker, the street contractor, was arrested on complaint of Wm. Braden, superintendent of streets, for violating a city ordinance which prohibits the use of Chinese on public work. The offense charged is the employment of Celestials on Ella street, back of Bishop Scott Grammar school. Four Chinamen engaged at work were also arrested, but were released on bail, as was also Mr. Baker.

OPENING OF U STREET.—The city surveyor of East Portland has made the necessary surveys for the opening of the foot of U street to the river. In his report to the board of trustees he states he finds a portion of the land necessary to condemn belongs to Levi and A. J. Knott, and a part to the state of Oregon. His report has been received and placed on file, and the city recorder was ordered to give the usual notice.

FINGER CRUSHED.—Joseph Ladd, a grandson of Joseph Knott, of this city, met with a very painful accident Tuesday evening at Independence, resulting in the loss of the second finger on his right hand. Young Ladd was engaged in oiling a locomotive, and getting his digit caught, had the member crushed off. The accident was a very painful one, and will necessitate a brief vacation from labor.

CHARGED WITH THEFT.—J. W. Trent, a negro, who has served a term in states prison, was arrested last evening, charged with stealing a revolver from an up town saloon keeper.

THE SALEM RACES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Considerable dissatisfaction is manifested among horsemen with the manner in which the fall races at Salem are to be conducted. It appears that the policy of barring horses not owned in the state at the time the purses were offered has been adopted, upon the ground that if foreign horses start the purses will not fill, and owners here will keep their horses in their stables. This certainly is a poor argument, and such a proceeding is liable to bring racing into disrepute, when it should be the endeavor of all horsemen to build up the sport. To the community at large it appears that a few owners of horses in this state at this time are attempting to control all races for their mutual benefit. This may be an unjust conclusion, but it is one to which such methods lend a shade of probability. Is it any discredit to a horseman, who strives by every conceivable means in his power to give credit and stability to the turf and uphold its sports, and who wishes to provide the most interesting races, to import and own a first class horse. When such a condition of affairs is manifested our race courses had better be closed. Some old-fashioned people have, unfortunately, labored under the delusion that the primary object of these trials of speed was, in addition to giving a pleasant entertainment to a great number of people, to develop the superiority of the blood horse. But, according to the present fashion, one who owns, or is supposed to own the best horse, is put under the ban and must not run. Such proceedings will, in time, permit the integrity of the turf to be seriously questioned, and are not countenanced upon such courses as those at Saratoga, Long Branch or Coney Island, where much richer purses are given to all comers when it is almost certain that a "Spinaway" or a "Luke Blackburn" will walk over for the money.

In conclusion, we would say, gentlemen of Salem, do not draw the line too closely.

HOW TO TELL

Genuine Florida Water. The true Florida Water always comes with a little pamphlet wrapped around each bottle, and in the paper of this pamphlet are the words, "Lanman & Kemp, New York," water-marked, or stamped in pale, transparent letters. Hold a leaf up to the light and if genuine you will see the above words. Do not buy if the words are not there, because it is not the real article. The water mark letters may be very pale but by looking closely against the light you cannot fail to see them.

ARBUTUS

I wandered lonely where the pine trees made
Against the bitter east their barricade
And guided by its sweet
Perfume I found, within a narrow dell
Amid dry moss and dead leaves at my feet
The trailing spring flower that I like a shell

And bending o er it not irreverent
I thought of lives thus lowly clogged and pent
Which yet found room,
Through daily cumberings of decay and death
To give to heaven the sweetness of their breath
And to earth the beauty of their bloom.

John G. Whittier

MERE PLEASANTRIES

Robinson (after a long whist bout at the club)—"It's awfully late Brown. What will you say to your wife? Brown (in a whisper)—'Oh, I shan't say much, you know Good morning, dear,' or something of that sort. She'll say the rest."

When young gentlemen go out rowing with their girls they should either be prepared to save them in case of an accident keep a bright lookout for other craft or stop making love By observing one of these three rules our marriageable girls will not be killed off so rapidly

Marriage a la mode Old Gurnybags—"So you want to marry my daughter eh? Well, what are your expectations, sir? Young Sharpey—"Well I expect you'll do the handsome thing in the way of a marriage gift, and that will last us until you drop off, and then of course, you will make your will in our favor

The Cheyenne Sun says a lady of that city recently received the following note accompanied by a bouquet of flowers Dear —— I send you bi the boy a bucket of flours They is like mi love for u The nightshade menes kepe dark The dog fenil menes i am your slave. Rosis red and posis pail, mi love for you shall never fale

A Baltimore heiress fixed herself up as a homely woman of middle age, and got into a street car in which were four of her suitors, and as one of them wanted to get off, he got up and let her have his seat and she didn't notice but what he went to ride upon the platform, and of course she accepted him when he proposed Some men are born to luck.

"A corner room shady all day," was one of the demands that a modest guest made of Penrose, the clerk at the ——, the other day Said Penrose, without a smile, "Very sorry sir but can t accommodate you this year We used to have rooms like that but in order to keep them it was necessary to turn the whole building around on a spindle, and some of our best boarders said it made them seasick. Give you a shady room, sir, but not on a corner"

"I'm an archer, dear no longer

"William, tell me how you like it"
"Well enough" replied he wight

AMERICAN WIT.

Are the Great Humorists Declining?

[From the Cincinnati Times]

Who can account for the whimseys of popular tastes? Wits, actors, authors, amusements, orators, politicians, the idols of yesterday, are, perhaps, neglected to-day, and to-morrow or next week may be entirely forgotten How many of the witty writers who filled the columns of newspapers twenty or twenty-five years ago are ever read or heard of to-day? John Phoenix, Orpheus C Kerr, Artemus Ward, Mrs Partington, Josh Billings, Nasby, Twain and twenty others whose names escape us at the moment, are slowly but surely fading into obscurity Some are dead, some, so far as occupying any place in the public mind, might as well be dead Josh Billings' quaint spelling comes now and then before our eyes in the columns of the daily paper, not by reason of the spelling, but by reason of their genuine wit that underlies the odd orthography, and perhaps we might add in spite of it Nasby's letters at the X Roads have lost their pungency from the changed condition of politics and the public mind rather than from any superiority of the wit they contained in other days over that with which they are now written. Mark Twain is just as genial and irresistible in his volumes that he issues with less and less frequency every year as he was when the Leaping Frog and Innocence Abroad were offered to the public, but even Mark is going out of date Orpheus C Kerr too, is we understand, engaged in literary work in New York, but who has quoted a line of his writings for many years? Mrs Partington, in a literary sense, sleeps as soundly as Richard the Third or the Cæsars. John Phoenix has gone, indeed, to his fathers, and for that matter so has the memory of his writings while it is hardly a stretch of the truth to say the same of Artemus Ward.

The Meaning of Reconciliation.

[From Harper's Weekly]

What is the meaning of this "reconciliation"? Why is "the south not "reconciled"? Is "the north to be forgiven? Is "the south" gravely to play in the union the part of John Kelly at Cincinnati and pardon the loyal country? The democratic tactics are the madness of sectionalism Here is a section of the country which has plunged the union into a sanguinary contest, in which the section was worsted, and after fifteen years, during which all that has been asked of it is no penalty, but the acceptances of equal liberty fo all citizens, it is seriously announced that the section will be "reconciled" upon condition that the control of the government is placed in his hands As an argument for the support of General Hancock this is simply silly The only ground upon which "reconciliation"—that is to say, sectional harmony—is possible is the acquiescence of every section in equal, civil and political liberty The parties of the war continue, because that equality is denied in the old slave-holding section, and the last reason that would persuade a loyal American to vote for General Hancock is that his election, by giving the government to those who practically deny constitutional equal rights would "reconcile or pacify them.

Oregon's Advantages

[From the San Francisco Evening Post]

During the last decade the population of Oregon has increased 93 per cent, and that of California something over 50 The difference has been caused by the San Francisco monopolists These mighty potentates have nullified the great natural advantages that make California immeasurably superior to Oregon as a place of permanent residence

POVERTY AND SUFFERING

"I was dragged down with debt poverty and suffering for years caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring which did them no good I was completely discouraged until one year ago by the advice of my pastor I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use and in one month we were all well and none of us have seen a sick day since and I want to say to all poor men you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost I know it. GRAND RONDE RESERVATION

The Grand Ronde Indian reservation located in Yamhill county which is under the efficient management of Mr P B Sinnott the agent is, we learn in a very prosperous condition There are about 500 Indians included within the limits of the reservation composed of remnants of various tribes The Indians are very quiet orderly and industrious and seem perfectly happy with their surroundings There are small remnants of the Rogue river and Umpqua tribes who resist the influences of Christianity and civilization by refusing to allow their children to attend either the day or the Sunday school However the children are very susceptible to these influences, and the old Indians are gradually passing away and before many years have elapsed most of them will be numbered with the dead Removed from the personal influence exerted by the parents it is thought that the children can readily be induced to attend schools and become educated This reservation is under control of the Catholic church and Rev Father Crockett is the resident priest There are five sisters employed in teaching on the reservation The total number of pupils in school is 50 The females are taught by the sisters and the males by Prof Lynch The children are quite attentive and intelligent and make very creditable proficiency in their studies About the center of the reservation Mr Sinnott has laid out a little village with streets and walks which presents a very neat appearance The village consists of the Agent's residence and other the convent, school houses, a blacksmith shop, a wagon shop and several other buildings Blacksmithing and wagon making are carried on exclusively by Indians who are very good artisans, and their work gives entire satisfaction Many of the Indians on the reservation show considerable skill as carpenters One of the bridges which spans the Yamhill river was constructed entirely by Indians Farming is the chief pursuit most of the Indians owning in their own right a piece of land They are industrious tillers of the soil, and are as successful as the average white farmers This season they will raise several thousand bushels of grain They have mowers reapers and threshing machines and know as much about operating them as the whites The Indians with but very few exceptions, are contented and prosperous Mr Sinnott the agent conducts the general affairs of the reservation in a very economical manner

The "Persecuted" South

[From the Boston Advertiser]

No man can remember a time since 1860 when the democratic party was not insisting that the south was being persecuted by all in the north who opposed its schemes of political ambition In this respect the party has not changed It has always been in favor of reconciliation by the submission of the north never in favor of reconciliation on the basis of a fair and equitable understanding between the two And this is true whether the south was wanting to extend slavery, to break up the union, to deny freedmen their rights, or to establish the home rule of the minority

In no material aspect has the local market changed for several days, the volume of transactions being rather light. The spring and fore summer's business is about over and the fall movement has not begun The trade of the city depends on the country, and the latter is now in the midst of harvest and paying but little immediate attention to the markets

The dispatch which we publish below from San Francisco relating to the extreme depression in the wheat trade in that city has a somewhat "bearish" look, but other reports indicate that it is at least partially true though the advices of the Merchant's exchange do not confirm The number of cargoes reported off coast in Beerbohm's report to the trade is large. The quantity of wheat on passage is above the average for this time in the year The tonnage supply on this coast or on the way is considerably under the estimated requirements, and ship owners and agents are contending stoutly against any reduction in charter rates, and in addition to all these facts which, of course, have a depressive influence on prices here, the crop reports from all the principal wheat growing sections in the United States are fluctuating and fine weather in England for some days past has greatly relieved the fears felt there of serious damage to the ripening grain

Nearly one thousand bushels of new valley wheat was received by the W O R R to-day but it will be two or three weeks before the movement assumes an important volume. At present prices are almost nominal, but few offers to sell and no one anxious to buy

In other products there is no change from quotations last given

A Bearish Dispatch

A San Francisco dispatch received after we went to press Tuesday night says

The Commercial News in its market review to day says yesterday the wheat market was thoroughly demoralized every one being anxious to sell while buyers were very scarce. Exporters were unwilling to pay over $1 42½ per cental for strictly choice No. 1, and were able to supply their wants at that figure There is a great deal of wheat offering that in quality is just below standard No 2 which is offered at $1 25@1 30 per cental without finding buyers. Some choice parcels of No 1 would probably bring $1 45 per cental for milling purposes which is an extreme price and but a small quantity could be disposed of at that figure as millers are buying cautiously and speculators seem to have lost courage Conservative estimates now place the surplus for export this season at about a million tons and thus far practically nothing has been shipped. Owing to the stubbornness of producers in holding back in hope of forcing down freights the storage capacity of the state is beginning to be exhausted and wheat is forced on the market for immediate sale The market is so weak that heavy receipts must further depress values and the present outlook favors lower prices in the near future It is proper to add that many consider one million tons surplus much to high an estimate. Some place it as low as six hundred thousand while eight hundred thousand may be considered an average estimate

Hepatitis, or Liver Complaint

DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs increases on pressure, sometimes the pain is in the left side, the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness, the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part There is generally a considerable loss of memory accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done A slight dry cough is sometimes an attendant The patient complains of weariness and debility, he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin, his spirits are low, and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it In fact, he distrusts every remedy Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER

DR C McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them A FAIR TRIAL

SPINNEY will guarantee to forfeit $500 for every case of Seminal Weakness or private disease of any kind or character which he undertakes and fails to cure

MIDDLE AGED MEN.

There are many at the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with too frequent evacuations of the bladder often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and a weakening of the system in a manner the patient cannot account for On examining the urinary deposits a ropy sediment will often be found and sometimes small particles of albumen will appear, or the color will be of a thin milkish hue again changing to a dark and torpid appearance. There are many men who die of this difficulty ignorant of the cause which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs
